RESPONSE

Sir/Madam:

In reply to the Office action dated March 15th 2002 (paper # 4), please amend the claims and consider the following remarks:

CLAIMS

We claim:

1. (Amended Once) An electronic isolator between a source stage and a load stage, including at least one circuit path into which electrical noise is directed away from said source and said load stages, including configuring means for configuring said path [isolator] to appear as an infinite impedance to the output signal from said source stage.

2. (Unamended) The electronic isolator of claim 1 wherein said configuring means comprises a voltage source.
